THE WITNESS FOUND.

John Gatling Testifies Against Jim Lee.

The Chinaman on Trial for Making an Assault Upon Him with a Deadly Weapon.

The case of the territory against Jim Lee was again called before Justice C. O. Austin yesterday morning. John Gatling, the missing witness had been found and he was placed on the stand. He was the personification of ignorance, unable to read or write and hardly able to understand a single question put to him. He swore that the Chinaman had attempted to cut him and did cut his clothes on account of his inability to do his work satisfactorily. He said that the Chinaman cursed him, but could not understand what he said outside of two words which he repeated several times.

On the cross examination he testified that he did not know the nature of an oath and did not know what was being done when he was being sworn to testify. No corroborating evidence was introduced and the prosecution rested their case with the testimony of Constable Fellows testifying as to the arrest of the Chinaman.

Jim Lee when called to the stand denied everything the boy had said regarding the assault and in this was supported by the testimony of another Chinaman who was there acting as interpreter. Mrs. Singletary was also called, but she knew nothing about the case so was excused.

The case was then submitted to the jury without argument.

After a deliberation of three hours the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

TEMPE ECHOES.

The roads are now again dry enough for good driving.

The Tempe and Mesa railroad seems now to be an assured fact.

Nils Peterson is reported to be the wealthiest man in Tempe.

Jack Halbert is around with his assessment roll rounding the people up.

Farmers coming to town all report the prospects splendid for a good year.

Wildman, Peters & Goldman received two more carloads of assorted goods yesterday.

Work is progressing rapidly on the second story of Heineman & Gill's new building on Mill avenue.

A runaway occurred here yesterday from the Tempe stable. It was a lively affair, but no one was injured.

The river is again falling and unless a fresh rise takes place will be low enough to ford in a day or two.

The merry-go-round will return to Phoenix next Monday where it expects to remain until the first day of May.

Guests of the Tempe hotel yesterday were: A. F. Gunn, San Francisco; John Perrin, Phoenix; H. C. Wacker, Creston, Neb.

Men are at work repairing Armstrong's ferryboat and will have it ready for use at the next rise of the river.

Several of our citizens are attempting to organize a theater party and charter a special train to visit the performance in Phoenix Monday night.

Late Wednesday night Constable Fellows found John Gatling, the complaining witness in the case against Jim Lee, the Chinaman, and placed him in jail for safe keeping.

We hope soon to be able to make public the names of a prominent young man and a well known lady, who we are informed, will soon make their engagement public.

Jake Pulitzer takes great interest in the Free Reading room, and a great deal of credit is due him for what he has already accomplished for that institution.

A special train will run from Tempe to Phoenix today to Arizona Charley's wild west show. The train will leave Tempe at noon, but will return on regular time in the evening.

Judge Bethune was associated with Mr. McCabe in the defense of the Chinaman tried yesterday. This was his first appearance in an Arizona court, and he did not therefore take an active part.

The office of the Tempe hotel is getting to be a regular meeting place for disciples of Baron Munchausen and the tales that are told there would make the baron (could he hear them) green with envy.

Mr. Bryant has started work on a new ferry boat and is pushing the work rapidly ahead. All the lumber is on the ground and one side is already finished. He hopes to have the boat in running order in a few days.

Schultz & Frank have on exhibition in their window a large wreath made entirely of feathers. It is a very handsome piece of work and well worth seeing. The wreath was done by a Mrs. Miller of Phoenix, now a resident of Tempe.

Quite a sum of money was realized for the Tempe free reading room by the benefit given for it by Evans & Jackson, the proprietors of the merry-go-round. All afternoon and evening crowds of our best citizens rode merrily around the circle.

Quite a good deal of enthusiasm is being shown in regard to base ball, and the Tempe base ball club proposes soon to challenge Phoenix to a match game for $100 per side. Some of the boys are out practicing every day and show quite an improvement in their playing.

Fritz Berkenkamp, the butcher who owns the lots where Mr. Reynolds now lives, intends to move the house, which is a frame one, to his lot near the depot just as soon as Mr. Reynolds vacates it; and in place expects to erect a two-story brick building for the use of his butcher shop.

A. F. Gunn, manager of the American Book Co. of San Francisco, is here combining business with pleasure. From Tempe he expects to go to Tucson and stay there a few days. The company which he represents is the largest school book supply company on the coast, and most of the books used in our schools come from that source.

An Expensive Element.

A dozen women, members of the Mexican demi monde, crowded Justice Austin's court room yesterday, telling, or trying to tell him, all at one time, of an alleged assault which two of their number would have committed had they not been arrested. The deadly knife which one of them testified as having seen on the person of another one turned out to be only a half filled whisky bottle. Justice Austin could make nothing out of the case and it was apparent that some of the women were drunk and were using the law to vent their personal animosity. So all hands were discharged. This is the second time within a week that these women were brought into court. Money could be saved to the county were they driven out.

A SOUTHERN CYCLONE.

The Path of the Whirling Monster Marked by the Wreck of Towns.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 24.—[Associated Press.]—Well authenticated reports say the town of Lapelo, Miss., the home of Congressman John Allen was destroyed by a severe storm today. The little town of Kelly, 15 miles from Memphis, on the Memphis and Birmingham railroad was wiped out during the same storm. No lives were lost. Particulars are not obtainable at present.

For artistic shaving and hair cutting visit the Fashion barber shop. Mill avenue, opposite Gregory's.
